Criteria

The Thomas Jefferson Award, funded through a grant from the Robert Earl McConnell Foundation, honors a member of the University of Missouri community who through personal influence and performance of duty in teaching, writing and scholarship, character and influence, devotion and loyalty to the University best exemplifies the principles and ideals of Thomas Jefferson. For example, Jefferson encouraged competition among ideas, rejected superstition in favor of a scientific and rational world view, believed that society and government should be tolerant of differences, supported free public education and the application of knowledge to the solution of public problems, and was devoted to free expression. In light of its stated purpose, the Thomas Jefferson Award recognizes individuals who rise above excellence and demonstrate clear distinction in teaching, research, writing, creative activities, and service to the University of Missouri and humankind.

The recipient of this award will hold the title of Thomas Jefferson Professor during the year that he/she is the current recipient. After one year, the title of "Thomas Jefferson Fellow" may be used.

The nomination packet shall include in the following order:

1. The completed cover sheet.
